

Museums on the Green

contain a treasure trove of artifacts and information that tell the story of our town. We believe that the more people know about the rich heritage that surrounds us, the more they will see themselves as a part of Falmouth's continuing story.

The Museums strive to be an interesting destination for residents and visitors with our changing exhibits and frequent programs and lectures. We are an active member of the town's business community and a collaborator and supporter of our broader cultural community.

The Falmouth Historical Society maintains a research library which is available to everyone, from folks who live around the block to scholars from around the world.
